Queen Bess Now Facing Lengthy List Of Official Duties As New Monarch

Giving Title To Husband Tops Tasks

Edinburgh Outranked By 3-Year-Old Son In Present Setup

LONDON, Feb. 16 — (P)—Young Queen Elizabeth II hid lingering grief for her father behind her home's secluding walls Saturday before grappling with a host of duties and taking the long rest her advisers are urging upon her.

Within Clarence House she rested amid the comforting presence of her handsome young husband, the Duke of Edinburgh and her two children, three-year-old Crown Prince Charles and his year-old sister, Princess Anne.

Before she takes a holiday to recover from the strains imposed upon her by the death of her father, King George VI, and her sudden ascension of the British throne, she must make the decisions that only a sovereign can make.

One of these decisions comes only to a queen, and never to a king—the choice of rank and title for her husband.

PALACE SOURCES believe he will receive the title of Prince Consort and be raised in precedence to rank ahead of all in the kingdom except the sovereign. Queen Victoria, the great great grandmother of both Elizabeth and the Duke, set the precedent by conferring this title and rank to her husband, Albert.

The Duke now is outranked by his son, who, as eldest son of the sovereign, became Duke of Cornwall the moment the king died.

Edinburgh also probably will be promoted to senior rank in all the services—the navy, in which he has been an active lieutenant commander, the army and the air force.

Elizabeth must also consider plans for her coronation. A likely time for it is early Summer, inasmuch as she decreed mourning only until June 1, in place of the customary nine months to a year. She now has to select more than 20 senior members of the staff to run the royal household, and arrange to move into Buckingham Palace, London seat of the monarch, from her present residence nearby in Clarence House.

Duty will keep her in London several weeks. Then she is expected to go to one of the royal estates—perhaps to the Sandringham estate where her father was born and died—to rest from the heavy demands thrust upon her when a blood clot claimed her father's life ten days ago.

French Parliament Vote Is Awaited

PARIS, Feb. 16 — (P)—The policy of putting German soldiers into a unified army to defend Europe lies at the uncertain mercy of the French parliament.

A vote of confidence, expected sometime Saturday, will decide the issue. Parliament decision is in the hands of the French socialists, who want the whole question put off. They are anti-Communist, but they want special guarantees for their country and they want German rearmament delayed until they get them.

Scientific Tests Tag Gamblers In Four Specific Categories

CHICAGO, Feb. 16 — (P)—If you like to gamble, the odds are that you're intrigued only by certain types of betting propositions.

That was the inside dope as published by a University of Chicago scientist in the Bulletin of Mathematical Biophysics.

H. D. Landahl, associate professor of mathematical biology, described a test in which some 50 persons were made varying hypothetical gambling offers to determine the amounts they were willing to risk at various odds. Results showed there are four clear-cut types of gamblers.

Rated in an "over 600 miles-per-hour class" for security reasons, the Cougar is the swept-wing successor to the battle-proved Panther.

RELIGIOUS REVIVAL UNSEEN

Better Teaching Said Top Need In Churches

COLUMBUS, Feb. 16 — (P)—A religious revival in the United States won't come without a greatly improved program of teaching in the churches, Dr. Gerald E. Knoff of Chicago believes.

Dr. Knoff is associate executive secretary of the Division of Christian Education of the National Council of the Churches of Christ in the USA. He spoke to 650 members of the division's assembly, which was holding its business session here Saturday.

"Every great revival that the Christian church has ever had has been accompanied by a renewal of interest in its teaching ministry," Dr. Knoff said.

"The Protestant reformation was only one of a long series of the deepened interest in what we would call today the educational ministry of the Christian church."

Dr. Knoff told the assembly, which represents 40 Protestant groups, that responsibility for religious education rests on Sunday school teachers and parents.

"TOO MANY parents feel that they can turn the religious training of their children over to the Sunday school, and too often church leaders seem to encourage the idea," he said. "It's a job for both."

Friday night, Dr. Rush Isabel Seabury of Boston suggested church schools begin training future congressmen to "make it impossible for any of them to play football with the hunger of another people."

Declaring that India presented a "sober reminder of our lack of grace on the political scene," the religious educator said:

"If the United States ever leaves India as we have had to leave China, we probably can see clear traces of that political defeat in Congress that delayed relief for India's famine-stricken."

Dr. Seabury is educational secretary of the American Board of Missions of the Congregational Christian Churches. She told the assembly the church has been derelict in not establishing long ago a "mission to members of Congress," adding:

"We have the senators and congressmen of tomorrow in our church schools today."

3 College Lads Jailed After Beating Man

KENT, Feb. 16 — (P)—For beating a man who objected to their swearing in front of his wife, three Kent State University freshmen from Cleveland are in Portage County jail for 60-day terms.

Justice of the Peace Stephen Vandersteegen of nearby Brady Lake imposed the jail sentences, along with $25 fines, on Julius Compotto, 18; Lewis Trivisonno, 20; and Louis Sabetta, 20. A fourth freshman, Andrew Valore, 19, of Cleveland, was fined $25, but his jail sentence was suspended.

The four were accused of assault on Werley H. Beavers, 34, of Kent, who is in a hospital with bruises and eye injuries. The beating took place in Brady Lake Wednesday night.

Thomas Beavers, a brother of the victim, said the university boys got out of their car and started cursing Werley Beavers who had stopped to look at an overturned car. When he protested their language because his wife was with him, Werley Beavers was beaten to the ground, and kicked, his brother testified.

COLUMBUS, Feb. 16 — (P)—T. J. Kauer, state highway director, has notified the Ohio Civil Service Commission of the five-day suspension of William Stork, a painter at the state highway garage in Middletown for discipline reasons.

New UN Trouble: 'UN Barber Shop'

Use Of World Organization's Name Brings Latest Headache

NEW YORK, Feb. 16 — (P)—The United Nations has a new problem—a Third Avenue barber. It may take an act of the U. S. Congress to end their dispute.

The UN, already grappling with such vital issues as Korea and world disarmament, now must contend with Tom Fucarino—occupation, barber—address, Third Avenue, New York, U.S.A.

Fucarino, whose shop is in the east side area of the new UN headquarters, went to the county clerk back in 1946 and registered the name of the shop as "United Nations Barber Shop."

But just a few days before the registration, the UN General Assembly adopted a resolution against the use of its title for commercial purposes.

THE BARBER didn't know about the UN resolution, and the world organization didn't know about Fucarino. The county clerk's office apparently was in the dark, too. Then a couple of weeks ago some

Youngstown Faces Suit On Pollution

COLUMBUS, Feb. 16 — (P)—The city of Youngstown is facing the threat of a court suit by the state attorney general over the question of dumping raw sewage into the Mahoning river.

Attorney General C. William O'Neill says he will file such a suit in Mahoning County common pleas court in a week or 10 days. He will charge the city with dumping raw sewage into the river in violation of the state's stream anti-pollution law.

If the suit is filed, it will be the first court test of the anti-pollution law, enacted by the legislature in 1949. If convicted, the city would be liable to a $500 fine. A new suit could be filed each 30 days until the offense was ended. Youngstown is the largest city in Ohio without a sewage treatment plant.

O'Neill said the city has plans to build a sewage treatment plant, but the project has been delayed in a dispute between the mayor and city council over sale of bonds to finance the project.

The attorney general said he plans similar court action against other Ohio communities if they don't heed his warning to take proper care of their sewage by treatment. He did not name the cities.

Nunan Case May Bring New Probes

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 — (P)—Joseph D. Nunan Jr. is facing possible investigation by the Justice Department and Congress into his relations with firms having tax troubles.

The revenue bureau said Nunan, after resigning as U. S. tax commissioner in June, 1947, sought and obtained permission to represent nine such firms.

The fast-moving case brought these late developments:

1. Senator George (D-Ga.) announced the revenue bureau had advised his Senate Finance Committee that it turned over to the Justice Department for prosecution all nine tax cases in which Nunan's name appeared.

2. Rep. King (D-Calif.) announced that his House Ways and Means Committee, now probing income tax scandals in San Francisco, will call Nunan as a witness for a public airing of the nine cases.

one reported the barber to V. J. G. Stavridi, a UN official.

Stavridi promptly dispatched a letter to the Third Avenue barber requesting that he "cease using the name." The UN official diplomatically added:

"Should you wish to use the name in a purely descriptive manner, as, for instance, the barber shop near the United Nations, there would be no objection."

But Fucarino, who has been barbering around New York for 32 years, said he had no intention of changing his shop's name until some one proves he is breaking a law.

That's where Congress comes in. There just isn't a law, although the UN has asked Congress to back up its resolution with federal legislation.

Congress has a draft of the legislation, Stavridi said, but it's been pigeon-holed somewhere in Washington and there's no telling when it will come up for a vote.

Stavridi admitted that, for the time being, he just can use persuasion on Fucarino.

In the meantime, Stavridi said, he is not cracking down on any of the other merchants using the UN name—that is, unless the offenders are reported to him.

Joseph V. Celano, who owns the United Nations Drug Co. in the same east side area, said he had not heard from Stavridi and added: "Anybody wants me to give it up now, they got to pay me a lot of money."

Oberlin Urges No Curbs On Giving Opinions

OVERLIN, Feb. 16 — (P)—The faculty of Oberlin College has issued a statement calling upon "all colleges and universities to make a strong and uncompromising defense of intellectual freedom."

"The Oberlin faculty regards all forms of interference with intellectual freedom, discriminatory loyalty oaths, censorship and other restrictions on free speech and thought as inimical to the democracy way of life," the statement said, adding:

"We urge all faculties and administrative officials to avoid that categorizing tendency which creates guilt by association, for it is the character and integrity of the individual scholar, as well as his methods and purposes, that should determine his right to membership in a community of scholars."

The statement said that in times of crisis "it is tempting to measure all things by the rough standards of unity, loyalty and orthodoxy."

But the hope of progress and security for any society, it continued, "lies in encouraging diversity of opinion and free examination of ideas rather than blind conformity or suppression."

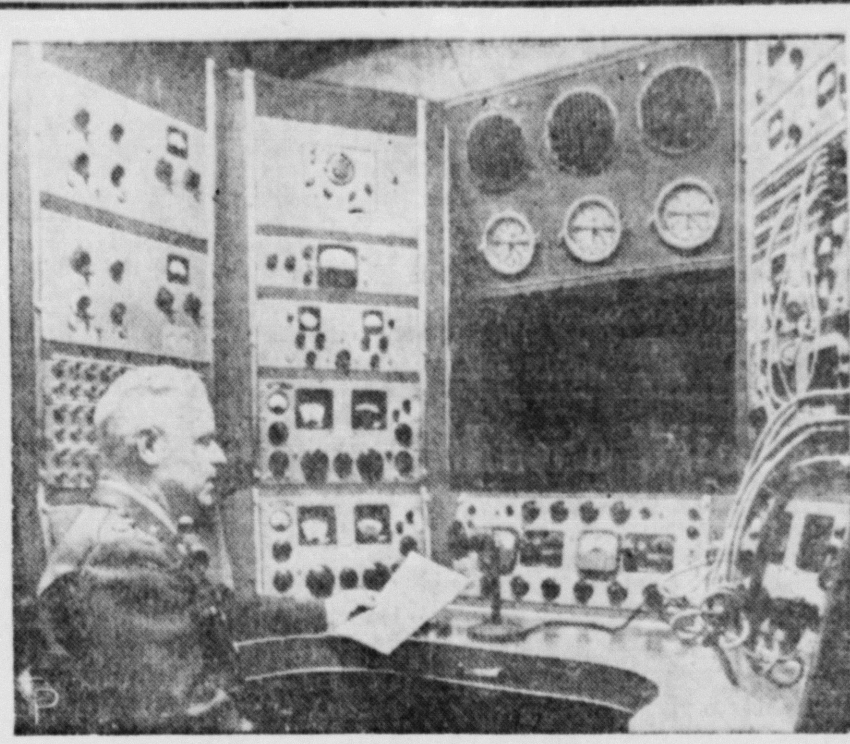

Detective Cited In Burglary Ring

NEW YORK, Feb. 16 — (P)—A city detective—described as a "louse" and a "rat" by Police Commissioner George Managhan—was booked Saturday as a member of "the best band of burglars in town."

The detective, 33-year-old James J. Fox, and three other men were accused in an attempted burglary and with possession of burglary tools. Police picked up the four Friday after watching them go into two buildings, where they tried in vain to enter three separate apartments.

Rate Hike Sought

COLUMBUS, Feb. 16 — (P)—The Telephone Service Co. of Wapakoneta has asked the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio for permission to raise rates enough to bring in an additional $32,118 yearly.

A NEW COMMUNICATIONS car which will provide instantaneous communication by voice, radio-telephone, radio-teletypewriter and radio facsimile with Washington from anywhere in the United States has been added to President Truman's special presidential train. It was built in St. Louis at a cost of $119,354, and will be operated by the Army Signal Corps. Maj. Gen. George McNally, commanding officer of the White House signal branch, examines the main controls of the "General Albert J. Myer" in Washington.

Minnesota Primary May Carry Six Names

MINNEAPOLIS, Feb. 16 — (P)—Six possible candidates—three Republicans and three Democrats—are on the ballot for Minnesota's March 18 presidential primary.

Actually, there are seven slates but two are for Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Latest entry was a Democrat, Senator Kefauver of Tennessee, whose name was filed before deadline Friday night by backers wearing coonskin caps.

The two other Democrats are Minnesota's Senator Humphrey and E. Dudley Parsons of Minneapolis. Republican filings are for Former Minnesota Governor Harold E. Stassen, Gen. Dwight Eisenhower, MacArthur and Edward C. Slettedahl of St. Paul who is pledged to MacArthur.

Stassen, Slettedahl and Parsons filed their own names and have until Feb. 20 to withdraw. The others filed by petition, have until Feb. 25. To drop out, candidates must file affidavits saying they would not accept nomination.

HUMPHREY is a "favorite son" and says he will turn his delegates over to President Truman at the nominating convention.

In Wisconsin, meanwhile, there arose a possibility that Eisenhower backers and Gov. Earl Warren of California might form a coalition.

Philip F. LaFollette, former Wisconsin governor, announced that a conference would be held in Madison Saturday to enter such a slate in the state's GOP primary April 1. If Warren accepts the plan he would agree to enter the primary and campaign in Wisconsin.

Delegates elected in his name would support him at the national convention, but by agreement would shift their votes to Eisenhower if it became apparent Warren could not win.

Rep. Hilling (R-Calif.) said in Keene, N. H., Friday night he thought Warren's chances of getting the presidential nomination was

Sabres, Allied Ships Press Blast At Reds

SEOUL, Feb. 16 — (P)—Allied Sabre jets were out early Saturday over Northwest Korea while the Fifth Air Force was announcing the lightest week of plane losses since "Operation Strangle" began last August.

Off Northeast Korea, Allied warships began their second year of daily bombardments of Wonsan.

Fifth Air Force headquarters said last week's losses were confined to one Sabre lost in air-to-air combat and two Thunderjets shot down by ground fire.

The one Sabre, however, was that of the brilliant jet ace, Maj. George H. Davis Jr. of Lubbock, Tex., who shot down two Red jets the day he went down.

Along the 155-mile Korean battle front most of the small scale action was on the east-central and eastern fronts where the Reds have shown more signs of activity.

Seven Allied raiding parties, including two armored units, jabbed at Communist positions in Western Korea Saturday, but no major fighting developed.

UN Reason For Refusal Is Obvious

Czechs, Poles OK'd By Allies To Act As Neutral Policemen

MUNSAN, Feb. 16 — (P)—The UN Command Saturday quickly vetoed Communist nomination of Soviet Russia as a neutral nation to help police a Korean armistice.

The UN accepted two Soviet satellites—Poland and Czechoslovakia—as the other Red representatives on neutral behind-the-lines inspection teams.

An Allied staff officer said the reason for rejection of Russia should be obvious.

The Russians have supplied Communist armies in Korea with fighter planes, tanks and other war materials, and Russian officers trained the North Korean army before the outbreak of war.

A UN staff officer said the Reds made it clear they would accept the Allied nominations of Switzerland, Norway and Sweden to help police a truce if the UN command would accept the three Red nominations.

THE ACTION came in a staff officer meeting after a full dress session by top negotiators in which the Reds offered a revised proposal for a top level Korean peace conference.

The Red draft made no mention of non-Korean problems—but it was worded in such a way that almost anything could be included.

The Allies turned down part of the original Red plan which called for settlement of sweeping Asian problems.

The new Red proposal said only that a "higher level" political conference should be held within three months after a truce is signed to discuss withdrawal of foreign troops and "the peaceful settlement of the Korean problem, etc."

Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy, senior Allied negotiator, said "etc" could mean a lot of things. "I will not interpret anything until I have had a chance to study it."

North Korean Gen. Nam Il, in submitting the new draft, said it did not commit the later conference to anything not mutually agreeable. But he said it was "a matter of certainty" that other questions "which are directly related to peace in Korea would be touched upon."

Nam said the new draft was submitted to prevent "continued haggling."

Joy asked for an adjournment until 8 p. m. (EST) Saturday to study the new proposal.

Twins Continuing Identical Roles

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 16 — (P)—Shirley Jeanne George and Gloria Ray George, 26-year-old twins are identical in everything—even divorce complaints.

They both accused their husbands, the brothers Ellis and Joseph George, with cruelty in identical complaints Friday. The couples were married Christmas Eve 1950 in a double ceremony.

Funeral Scenes Due On Television

NEW YORK, Feb. 16 — (P)—Scenes from the funeral for Britain's King George VI will be shown on film Saturday night for American televiewers.

Two networks already have scheduled telecasts of the burial rites: National Broadcasting Company, TV showing at 7 p. m.; Columbia Broadcasting System, 9:30 p. m.

Miner's Wife Says She Does Better On Self Than A Dentist

WAYNE, W. Va., Feb. 16 — (P)—The 25-year-old wife of a coal miner here does her own dental surgery with a sterilized safety razor blade, pulls her own teeth with an old pair of forceps and says it "doesn't hurt as much" as a visit to a dentist.

Mrs. Paul Napier, who has pulled 13 of her own teeth, got into business after a dentist had extracted two teeth.

Abscesses developed, so she sterilized a safety razor blade, lanced the gums, probed and worked out the bits of bone she said were causing the trouble. The surgery healed properly, but aches developed in other teeth so she decided they all must go. She resurrected an old pair of forceps her grandfather owned—"teeth pliers," she called them—and went to work.

"The eye teeth were the worst," Mrs. Napier said. It took two days of tugging whenever she could stand it to get one of them out.

Her technique improved with experience and on her best day she removed five. Seven uppers and four lowers remain.

Married at 13, Mrs. Napier has mothered five children.

Latest entry was a Democrat, Senator Kefauver of Tennessee, whose name was filed before deadline Friday night by backers wearing coonskin caps.

The two other Democrats are Minnesota's Senator Humphrey and E. Dudley Parsons of Minneapolis. Republican filings are for Former Minnesota Governor Harold E. Stassen, Gen. Dwight Eisenhower, MacArthur and Edward C. Slettedahl of St. Paul who is pledged to MacArthur.

Stassen, Slettedahl and Parsons filed their own names and have until Feb. 20 to withdraw. The others filed by petition, have until Feb. 25. To drop out, candidates must file affidavits saying they would not accept nomination.

HUMPHREY is a "favorite son" and says he will turn his delegates over to President Truman at the nominating convention.

In Wisconsin, meanwhile, there arose a possibility that Eisenhower backers and Gov. Earl Warren of California might form a coalition.

Philip F. LaFollette, former Wisconsin governor, announced that a conference would be held in Madison Saturday to enter such a slate in the state's GOP primary April 1.

If Warren accepts the plan he would agree to enter the primary and campaign in Wisconsin.

Delegates elected in his name would support him at the national convention, but by agreement would shift their votes to Eisenhower if it became apparent Warren could not win.

Rep. Hilling (R-Calif.) said in Keene, N. H., Friday night he thought Warren's chances of getting the presidential nomination was

Sabres, Allied Ships Press Blast At Reds

SEOUL, Feb. 16 — (AP)—Allied Sabre jets were out early Saturday over Northwest Korea while the Fifth Air Force was announcing the lightest week of plane losses since "Operation Strangle" began last August.

Off Northeast Korea, Allied warships began their second year of daily bombardments of Wonsan.

Fifth Air Force headquarters said last week's losses were confined to one Sabre lost in air-to-air combat and two Thunderjets shot down by ground fire.

The one Sabre, however, was that of the brilliant jet ace, Maj. George H. Davis Jr. of Lubbock, Tex., who shot down two Red jets the day he went down.

Along the 155-mile Korean battle front most of the small scale action was on the east-central and eastern fronts where the Reds have shown more signs of activity.

Seven Allied raiding parties, including two armored units, jabbed at Communist positions in Western Korea Saturday, but no major fighting developed.

a compromise candidate "are improving daily."

He said Senator Taft of Ohio and Eisenhower, "the two leading contenders, are now deadlocked."

Along this same line, Stassen told a Boston audience that neither Taft nor Eisenhower could win the nomination.

"The two campaign camps tend to block and cancel each other," he contended, adding that he would emerge as the compromise candidate.

In Cheyenne, Wyo., Taft told a GOP rally that victory could come only "by an all out attack on the immorality of this administration, on unlimited spending and taxing and bureaucratic relation of the Fair Deal, and on the disastrous foreign policy which has led to Russian power and unnecessary war."

NEW YORK, Feb. 16 — (AP)—The steel industry says the CIO United Steelworkers have not refuted "the fact that a steel wage rise at this time will touch off a costly new inflation spiral."

The steel companies' made this statement Friday after CIO President Philip Murray addressed a Wage Stabilization Board holding hearings here on the union's demands for an 18-cent-an-hour wage boost.

Murray, who also is president of the steelworkers, spoke in rebuttal to previous industry testimony. He said the firms were "seeking to provoke a steel strike or the threat of a steel strike, in order to place additional pressure" on the government for price increases.

John Stephens, a vice president of the U. S. Steel Corp., said Murray's remarks were "poppycock and balderdash."

Later, the industry said that the union had not refuted the steel warnings of inflation. The statement continued that the CIO rebuttal "does not deny that steel company profits are declining and are below average."

Miner's Wife Says She Does Better On Self Than A Dentist

WAYNE, W. Va., Feb. 16 — (AP)—The 25-year-old wife of a coal miner here does her own dental work with a sterilized safety razor blade, pulls her own teeth with an old pair of forceps and says it "doesn't hurt as much" as a visit to a dentist.

Mrs. Paul Napier, who has pulled 13 of her own teeth, got into business after a dentist had extracted two teeth.

Abscesses developed, so she sterilized a safety razor blade, lanced the gums, probed and worked out the bits of bone she said were causing the trouble.

UN Reason For Refusal Is Obvious

Czechs, Poles OK'd By Allies To Act As Neutral Policemen

MUNICH, Feb. 16 — (AP)—The UN Command Saturday quickly vetoed Communist nomination of Soviet Russia as a neutral nation to help police a Korean armistice.

The UN accepted two Soviet satellites—Poland and Czechoslovakia—as the other Red representatives on neutral behind-the-lines inspection teams.

An Allied staff officer said the reason for rejection of Russia should be obvious.

The Russians have supplied Communist armies in Korea with fighter planes, tanks and other war materials, and Russian officers trained the North Korean army before the outbreak of war.

A UN staff officer said the Reds made it clear they would accept the Allied nominations of Switzerland, Norway and Sweden to help police a truce if the UN command would accept the three Red nominations.

THE ACTION came in a staff officer meeting after a full dress session by top negotiators in which the Reds offered a revised proposal for a top level Korean peace conference.

The Red draft made no mention of non-Korean problems—but it was worded in such a way that almost anything could be included.

The Allies turned down part of the original Red plan which called for settlement of sweeping Asian problems.

The new Red proposal said only that a "higher level" political conference should be held within three months after a truce is signed to discuss withdrawal of foreign troops and "the peaceful settlement of the Korean problem, etc."

Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy, senior Allied negotiator, said "etc could mean a lot of things. . . I will not interpret anything until I have had a chance to study it."

North Korean Gen. Nam Il, in submitting the new draft, said it did not commit the later conference to anything not mutually agreeable. But he said it was "a matter of certainty" that other questions "which are directly related to peace in Korea would be touched upon."

Nam said the new draft was submitted to prevent "continued haggling."

Joy asked for an adjournment until 8 p. m. (EST) Saturday to study the new proposal.

but aches developed in other teeth so she decided they all must go. She resurrected an old pair of forceps her grandfather owned—"teeth pliers," she called them—and went to work.

"The eye teeth were the worst," Mrs. Napier said. It took two days of tugging whenever she could stand it to get one of them out.

Her technique improved with experience and on her best day she removed five. Seven uppers and four lowers remain.

Married at 13, Mrs. Napier has mothered five children.

Child Problems and Solutions

By GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, PhD

During the last few years, the teachers in the Mount Holly (New Jersey) Township, Public Schools have worked together at all grade levels to improve the study skills and habits of their pupils. Inspired by their principal, F. W. Holbein, the teachers have gone at this matter wholeheartedly. Greatest stress was placed on the seventh and eighth grades.

In October, the pupils were asked to rate themselves against a check list provided them of desirable study habits. The results were used with the classes for discussion of various items needing general improvement.

Next day a picture strip entitled "How to Study" was shown and discussed. Also, each pupil wrote a composition in his English class noting his own strong and weak study habits, and indicating how he planned to improve them. In February, each pupil rated himself again to ascertain his improvement.

The first copies of the rating scale were sent to the parents, together with a letter suggesting some things they could do to help.

their boys and girls form adequate study skills and habits. The February meeting of the P.T.A. was devoted to this subject. Incidentally, I had the privilege of leading that discussion.

Later in the year, groups of pupils volunteered to work with the principal in evaluating the results of the program. These pupils reported general improvement in these ways: in outlining and organizing main points of materials studied; making the first copy of written work acceptable; checking the meaning of new words encountered; reviewing assignments; budgeting time for the various subject assignments; preparing homework assignments before looking at television or listening to radio; and in scanning new material before studying it carefully.

Various teachers have reported a somewhat greater ability in their classes in problem solving, a greater willingness by pupils to tackle problems, etc.

The check list used by the seventh and eighth grade pupils is the best I have ever seen. A shorter check list has also been prepared for the sixth graders, containing the high-spots of the other list.

Local Youth Is Held For Jacket Theft

An 18-year-old Circleville youth was held in Pickaway County jail Saturday after having admitted stealing a leather jacket.

The youth was arrested late Friday by the sheriff's office while they were seeking information on another case.

Sheriff Charles Radcliff said the Circleville youth was called in to give information about a 17-year-old boy, who allegedly had stolen some keys from a local dairy.

As the younger boy was being escorted from the room, the sheriff said, he asked why something wasn't done about the 18-year-old, who had stolen a leather jacket during the basketball tournament in Pickaway Fairgrounds Coliseum.

"The boy admitted having stolen the jacket," Radcliff said, "and told us he had thrown it into the rear end of a car parked near the Coliseum."

"WE CALLED the owner and he found the jacket where the boy had said it was."

The jacket is owned by William Near of Scioto Township, who had taken it off while watching Friday's tournament games. The Circleville youth was in jail before the theft was reported.

Authorities said the Circleville youth will face an accusation of petty larceny. The 17-year-old who gave the information is to be processed by juvenile court.

'Union Shop' Ruling Labeled Trouble Source

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—A government board's approval of the union shop for a million rail workers has given Labor a lever to pry the same compulsory arrangement out of other industries.

A three-man panel headed by David L. Cole of Paterson, N. J., recommended that the railroads grant the union shop and dues checkoff provisions to 17 unions representing a million-odd non-operating rail workers.

It was the first time the government, or a government board, had ever recommended in favor of the union shop on any such scope. The union shop requires all workers in a bargaining unit to hold union membership and pay dues.

"This is going to head us into a lot of trouble," a prominent government official declared. He asked not to be named.

The union shop issue is a big problem now facing the Wage Stabilization Board which has a number of major cases—including the Big Steel dispute—with the same issue.

Elinor Williams' Teen Tips

Leap Year parties and dances are fun with their reverse-the-rule, ladies-choice doings.

But let's not go overboard. Leap Year is no excuse for trying to turn the date-making tables completely, girls. It's no excuse for——Asking a boy for an ordinary Saturday night date. It's still the custom for girls to invite boys only to special events that are given by girls, such as girls' club and sorority dances or parties at girls' homes.

—Inviting a boy who has never shown the slightest interest in you to a party or a dance. Even in Leap Year, it's too "eager." Invite a boy you know well enough to say more than "Hi!" to in school . . . and perhaps would like to know better.

—Using man-snatching tactics on other girls' "steady" dates. Boys don't go "steady" unless they want to, as a rule, so be sure the boy you invite to a party isn't "going steady" with somebody else. Don't make a play for your girl friend's date, either, if you want to keep her friendship.

—Telephoning a boy without a real reason . . . just for a chat.

—Showing your date with affection. Build him up and flatter him in other ways . . . by showing an interest in his conversation and in whatever interests him; by complimenting him on his athletic ability, his skill in science or math, his choice of music, etc.

CHURCH IN WHICH LINCOLN WORSHIPPED HOUSES EMANCIPATION PROCLAMATION

By JOHN PETERSEN
Central Press Correspondent

WASHINGTON—It was in the summer of 1862, when these United States were being torn asunder by the strife of North against South, that President Abraham Lincoln first set down on paper his proposal to abolish slavery.

The date was July 14. The purpose was to bring to a speedy conclusion the War Between the States, to end the blood-letting of brother by brother and to unite the states into one nation once again.

That document, prepared by the Great Emancipator after much consideration and with the advice of his pastor, Dr. Phineas D. Gurley, now reposes in the New York Avenue Presbyterian church, where Lincoln worshipped.

It was presented to the church by Barney Balaban, motion picture company president, as a "rededication to the principles which inspired it, and an affirmative step to rekindle the spiritual flame that inspired its author."

The document is the first handwritten draft of the Emancipation Proclamation.

What most people have forgotten, however, is that in this first proposal, President Lincoln offered to purchase the slaves from their owners and then set them free.

In his "covering letter" to the Senate and the House of Representatives, President Lincoln stated:

"Herewith is the draft of a Bill to compensate any State which may abolish slavery within its limits, the passage of which, substantially as presented, I respectfully enclose and recommend."

IN HIS first draft, Lincoln apparently had in mind a sum of $100 as the purchase price. This is the figure he had originally written—and then scratched out—on his proposal.

The original draft of the Emancipation Proclamation reads: "Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, that whenever the President of the United States shall be satisfied that any State shall have lawfully abolished slavery within and throughout such

State, either immediately or gradually, it shall be the duty of the President, assisted by the Secretary of the Treasury, to prepare and deliver to such State, an amount of six per cent interest bearing bonds of the United States, equal to the aggregate value at xxxxx dollars per head, of all the slaves within such State, as reported by the census of the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty—the whole amount for any one State, to be delivered at once, if the abolishment be immediate, or, in equal annual installments, if it be gradual—interest to begin running on each bond at the time of its delivery, and not before.

"And be it further enacted, that if any State, having so received any such bonds, shall at any time afterward, by law, reintroduce, or tolerate, slavery within its limits, contrary to the act of abolishment, upon which such bonds shall have been received, said bonds, so received by said State shall at once be null and void in whosever hand they may be, and such State shall refund to the United States, all interest which may have been paid on such bonds."

EUB church will meet in the home of Cary Shasteen, 121 Park Place, at 8 p. m. Monday.

Sunday School teachers, assistant teachers and class presidents of the First Evangelical United Brethren church will meet at 7:30 p. m. Friday with Superintendent Edwin Richardson in the Shining Light Class Room to discuss some important Sunday school business.

Adult choir of the church will present a selection entitled "Faith is the Victory" during the service.

In Sunday school, the lesson topic for the day will be "The Family at Bethany."

Group "A" of Presbyterian Women's Association will meet in the home of Mrs. George Barnes, at 2 p. m. Thursday.

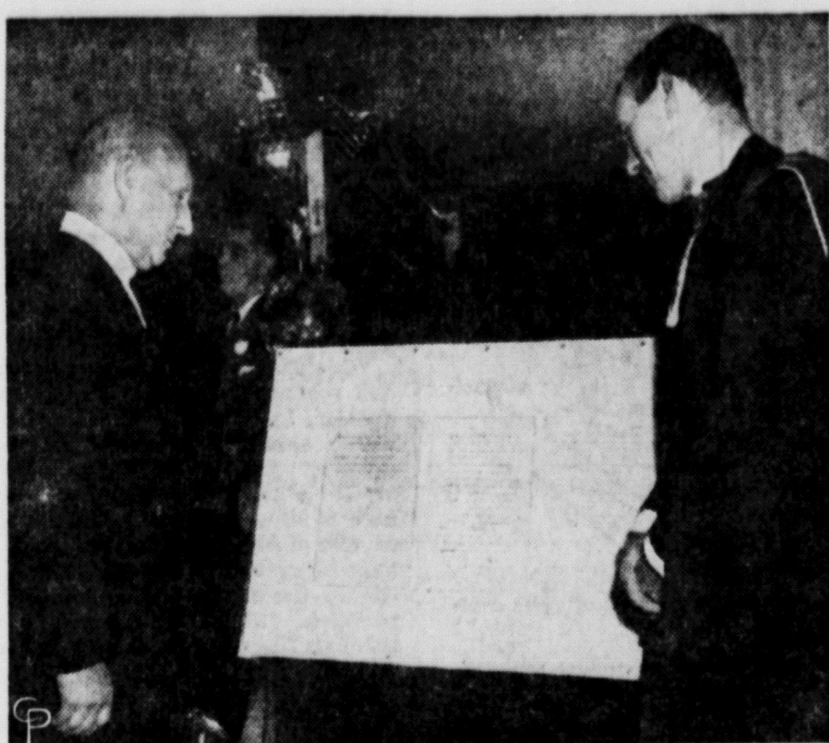

Senior choir of Trinity Lutheran church will rehearse Friday evening.

Midweek prayer service of Calvary EUB church will be held at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday.

Special Message Due For Catholics In Sunday Masses

Sexagesima Sunday masses in St. Joseph's Catholic church will be held at 8 a. m. and 10 a. m. In both masses, an announcement will be read. Similar messages also will be read in all churches and chapels of the Diocese of Columbus.

Bishop Michael J. Ready, by virtue of a special indulgent granted by the Holy See to all the Bishops of the United States, grants to all the faithful of the Diocese of Columbus a dispensation from the law of abstinence on Friday, February 22, which is George Washington's Birthday. He asks, however, that all those who avail themselves of

State, either immediately or gradually, it shall be the duty of the President, assisted by the Secretary of the Treasury, to prepare and deliver to such State, an amount of six per cent interest bearing bonds of the United States, equal to the aggregate value at xxxxx dollars per head, of all the slaves within such State, as reported by the census of the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty—the whole amount for any one State, to be delivered at once, if the abolishment be immediate, or, in equal annual installments, if it be gradual—interest to begin running on each bond at the time of its delivery, and not before.

Although the Cabinet members found the action to their liking, they suggested that it be withheld until the Union army, which had been suffering severe reverses, should gain an outstanding victory.

Lincoln waited therefore until Sept. 22, 1862—after Gen. George McClellan had succeeded in checking Gen. Robert E. Lee's progress at Antietam—before publishing the Proclamation, which was to become effective Jan. 1, 1863.

It was in this final version that Lincoln proclaimed that: "All persons held as slaves within any state or designated part of a state the people whereof shall be in rebellion against the United States shall be then, thenceforward, and forever free."

Using texts from Titus 2:14 and II Corinthians 9:15, the Rev. Carl L. Wilson says: "The unspeakable gift of Jesus Christ by the Father God presents an unmeasurable motive of love and mankind. Christ's gift of Himself in the work of redemption is practical, perfect and complete. This matchless gift calls for man's gift of self as the foundation of good works."

Fidelis Chorus will open the service with the processional hymn, "Holy, Holy, Holy," after which Church School Superintendent Edwin Richardson will lead in the affirmation of faith.

Miss Pat Nau will play organ numbers entitled "Andante," "Morning Song" and "March." The Chorus will sing an anthem, "I Heard the Voice of Jesus Say," with Marsha Morgan as soloist.

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Luke 10:38-42; John 11:1-45; 12:1-2.

At Bethany Jesus visited Martha, Mary and Lazarus, two sisters and their brother. Martha was the homemaker, Mary the studious one who loved to sit at the Master's feet listening to him.

Martha, troubled with household matters, thought her sister should help her and appealed to Jesus, but he said Martha was unnecessarily burdened, and that Mary had chosen the better part.

Lazarus became ill, died and was buried. Jesus was told of it and went to Bethany. Martha met him, saying that if he had been there her brother would not have died.

Jesus replied to Martha, saying, "Thy brother shall rise again." He went to the tomb, had it opened, and restored Lazarus to life.

CHURCH IN WHICH LINCOLN WORSHIPPED HOUSES EMANCIPATION PROCLAMATION

By JOHN PETERSEN
Central Press Correspondent

WASHINGTON—It was in the summer of 1862, when these United States were being torn asunder by the strife of North against South, that President Abraham Lincoln first set down on paper his proposal to abolish slavery.

The date was July 14. The purpose was to bring to a speedy conclusion the War Between the States, to end the blood-letting of brother by brother and to unite the states into one nation once again.

That document, prepared by the Great Emancipator after much consideration and with the advice of his pastor, Dr. Phineas D. Gurley, now reposes in the New York Avenue Presbyterian church, where Lincoln worshipped.

It was presented to the church by Barney Balaban, motion picture company president, as a "rededication to the principles which inspired it, and an affirmative step to rekindle the spiritual flame that inspired its author."

The document is the first handwritten draft of the Emancipation Proclamation.

What most people have forgotten, however, is that in this first proposal, President Lincoln offered to purchase the slaves from their owners and then set them free.

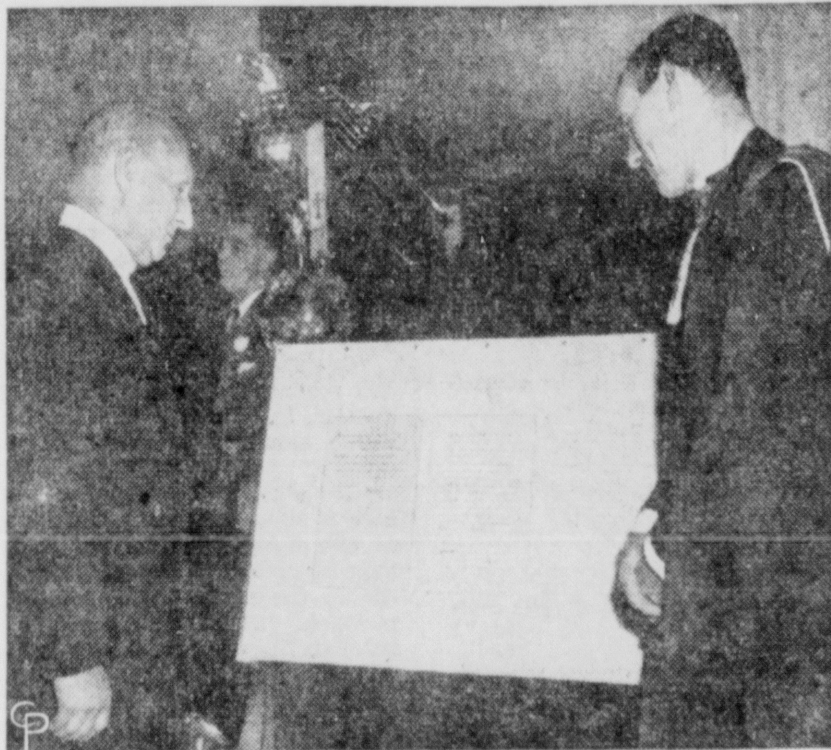

In his "covering letter" to the Senate and the House of Representatives, President Lincoln stated:

"Herewith is the draft of a Bill to compensate any State which may abolish slavery within its limits, the passage of which, substantially as presented, respectfully enclose and recommend."

IN HIS first draft, Lincoln apparently had in mind a sum of $100 as the purchase price. This is the figure he had originally written—and then scratched out—on his proposal.

The original draft of the Emancipation Proclamation reads:

"Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, that whenever the President of the United States shall be satisfied that any State shall have lawfully abolished slavery within and throughout such

State, either immediately or gradually, it shall be the duty of the President, assisted by the Secretary of the Treasury, to prepare and deliver to such State, an amount of six per cent interest bearing bonds of the United States, equal to the aggregate value at xxxxx dollars per head, of all the slaves within such State, as reported by the census of the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty—the whole amount for any one State, to be delivered at once, if the abolishment be immediate, or, in equal annual installments, if it be gradual—interest to begin running on each bond at the time of its delivery, and not before.

"And be it further enacted, that if any State, having so received any such bonds, shall at any time afterward, by law, reintroduce, or tolerate, slavery within its limits, contrary to the act of abolishment, upon which such bonds shall have been received, said bonds, so received by said State, shall at once be null and void in whosever hand they may be, and such State shall refund to the United States, all interest which may have been paid on such bonds."

Lincoln actually had no power, either legal or Constitutional, to abolish slavery in any manner in any state, and his plan to proceed against slavery at that time (1862) was simply a use of his vast war powers to embarrass the enemy.

Several weeks after he made this first draft of the Emancipation Proclamation, Lincoln showed it to his Cabinet and asked for their advice as to making it public.

Although the Cabinet members found the action to their liking, they suggested that it be withheld until the Union army, which had been suffering severe reverses, should gain an outstanding victory.

Lincoln waited therefore until Sept. 22, 1862—after Gen. George McClellan had succeeded in checking Gen. Robert E. Lee's progress at Antietam—before publishing the Proclamation, which was to become effective Jan. 1, 1863.

It was in this final version that Lincoln proclaimed that:

"All persons held as slaves within any state or designated part of a state the people whereof shall be in rebellion against the United States shall be then, thenceforward, and forever free."

"All persons held as slaves within any state or designated part of a state the people whereof shall be in rebellion against the United States shall be then, thenceforward, and forever free."

The text, taken from the Gospel according to St. John, is that portion where Andrew carries the news to Simon Peter that the Messiah has come.

The Rev. Mr. Troutman says: "The pleasure of bringing others to Christ may be experienced by any Christian. In this passage, we see that Andrew, the less glamorous and quieter of the brothers, first called Peter to the Messiah."

"We sometimes forget that God uses strange instruments, at times, to accomplish His purposes. That he should use Andrew, just an ordinary man, to call Peter, who was to be one of the leading disciples, may seem strange to us. We hear much more about Peter than we do about Andrew, yet Andrew was a very important disciple, too."

"Andrew fulfilled one of the first duties of any Christian, he told another about Christ."

The service will open with Mrs. Karl Herrmann, organist, playing "Laudes Domini." Junior Choir will lead the congregational singing of "Spread, O Spread, Thou Mighty Word," "O Zion, Haste, Thy Mission High Fulfilling," "O Christ, Our True and Only Light" and "I Know, Whom I Believe In."

Junior Choir also will offer the number, "Bless The Lord, O My Soul" as an anthem. During the receiving of the offering, Mrs. Herrmann will play Kreisler's "Cradle Song."

Sermon Series Begins Sunday In Calvary EUB

The Rev. James A. Herbst of Calvary Evangelical United Brethren church Sunday will begin a series of sermons based upon "The Beatitudes" as proclaimed by Jesus in the "Sermon On The Mount."

These statements on the qualities of the Christian life will serve as the basis for the sermons of worship until Easter Sunday when the series will be ended. Using the first of the Beatitudes as his text, the pastor will speak Sunday upon "Christian Humility."

Miss Minnie Wilkerson will play the prelude, offertory and accompanying congregational singing at the piano. Dale DeLong will assist in the worship service.

A new attendance campaign was instituted last Sunday under the theme, "Make The Lily Grow," and will continue through Easter Sunday. Attendance goals have been set for each Sunday during the period and for each class in the Sunday school for each of the respective Sundays. Dale DeLong, superintendent, is conducting the campaign, and all of the members of the school are to participate each of the Sundays for the completion of the goals.

Sunday afternoon, Calvary church will direct services in the various rest homes in the city. Sunday evening service will be held at 7:30 p. m. in the church. A special missionary film entitled "Wings To The Word" will be shown at this service.

1st EUB Church To Hear Sermon On 'God's Gift'

"The Unspeakable Gift," is to be sermon theme for unified worship service at 9:30 p. m. Sunday in First Evangelical United Brethren church.

Using texts from Titus 2:14 and II Corinthians 9:15, the Rev. Carl L. Wilson says: "The unspeakable gift of Jesus Christ by the Father God presents an unmeasurable motive of love and mankind. Christ's gift of Himself in the work of redemption is practical, perfect and complete. This matchless gift calls for man's gift of self as the foundation of good works."

Fidelis Chorus will open the service with the processional hymn, "Holy, Holy, Holy," after which Church School Superintendent Edwin Richardson will lead in the affirmation of faith.

Miss Pat Nau will play organ numbers entitled "Andante," "Morning Song" and "March." The Chorus will sing an anthem, "I Heard the Voice of Jesus Say," with Marsha Morgan as soloist. Congregational hymn will be "Jesus the Very Thought of Thee."

Church school classes will study the Bible lesson, "The Family at Bethany," from Luke 10:38-42 and John 11:1-5, 24-27.

Presbyterian Men To Hear Local Attorney

Ray W. Davis, Circleville attorney, will address Presbyterian Men's Brotherhood Feb. 20 upon "The Religion of Abraham Lincoln."

Davis has long been an interested student of Lincoln's life, and over a period of years has accumulated a library of more than 400 volumes on the subject, in addition to numerous manuscripts, letters, and other Lincolniana.

He points out that the spiritual aspect in Lincoln's character exerted a profound influence on his life. In his early years, Lincoln was often considered an agnostic, but the course of the years showed a significant growth of his interest in spiritual matters.

Men's Brotherhood meeting will open at 7:30 p. m. and the featured talk will be followed by a question and answer period.

Household Hints

Add grated onion, green pepper, and celery to tomato juice along with Worcestershire sauce, lemon juice, sugar, salt, and pepper to taste. Allow to stand in a covered container in the refrigerator for a few hours, then strain and serve.

Add a half cup of chopped dates, apricots, prunes, raisins, or nutmeats to a standard muffin recipe for variety.

When you're preparing Swiss steak add a half cup of nonfat dry milk solids to a quarter cup of the seasoned flour you pound into the meat. This amount of milk solids and flour will be enough for about a pound of round or flank steak.

To prepare Curry Butter blend a quarter teaspoon of curry powder into a quarter cup of butter and season with a dash of white pepper and paprika. Use the spread for chicken sandwiches or deviled eggs.

Mix two tablespoons of mayonnaise with two tablespoons of prepared yellow mustard; spread on four tomato halves and broil until lightly browned. Serve on a vegetable platter with buttered spinach, baked sweet potato, creamed mushrooms, and green snap beans.

Deviled eggs on shredded greens make a delicious and nutritious luncheon salad. Vary the filling for the eggs by mixing the yolks with deviled ham, finely minced tuna fish, or finely chopped green pepper or parsley.

IS KNOWLEDGE IS POWER

ATOMIC WEAPONS create in the minds of many men in the armed services a sort of dark age superstitious fear, reports Hanson Baldwin, military analyst of the New York Times, in reporting reactions of men in uniform engaged in atomic maneuvers whom he interviewed. Some think a single A-bomb exploded over a nation would render it uninhabitable for months.

Others are so completely ignorant of the potential effects of the A-bombs they think it is virtually harmless. Such fear and ignorance, which are the inevitable results of the unavoidable secrecy which surrounds the atomic program, create the danger that Americans will be inept in handling the new weapons.

An advantage of this country always has been the familiarity of its people with new methods and devices, which poses the question whether a program of military education as to the potentialities and limitations of atomic weapons is called for.

Baldwin is concerned because many American soldiers have a psychological fear of the new weapons and might be thrown into panic by their use by the enemy, whereas the Chinese and Russians know so little about the A-bomb they might not react unfavorably. Then, too, if Americans are not taught the fundamentals they might have difficulty in applying the weapons effectively.

Secrecy is never desirable if it can be avoided. The American people have been told of the terrible consequences of atomic weapons, but little else. If knowledge is power, lack of it may be weakness.

THE ONLY CURE

AT A RECENT engineers' meeting E. E. Kearns, manager of the General Electric Company's urban traffic division, stated that future automobile expressways ought to be built wide enough to accommodate a center mall for railway rapid transit. He sees rapid transit as the only permanent cure for the increasing congestion in metropolitan areas.

Congestion has already caused enormous economic loss. Mr. Kearns estimates that it is costing New York merchants $1,000,000 a day. Trucking delays represent a $40 million annual loss to Boston business. Central Detroit real estate values have dropped a billion dollars in 15 years.

Growing population is forcing workers to live farther and farther from their jobs. Congestion has slowed public transport to a crawl, so they use their cars to get to work, causing further congestion. It is a vicious circle that can be broken only by improving public transport.

Mr. Kearns points out that one lane on a city street can move a maximum of 1,500 auto passengers or 10,000 bus and trolley passengers an hour. A single track of express rapid transit can move as many as 60,000.

Public transportation facilities, if they were faster and more comfortable, would be more generally used, especially for trips in excess of four or five miles. The difficulties, physical and financial, admittedly are great, but they are not insurmountable.

No Fledglings In New Jet Bombers

TAMPA—(U)—The American Air Force is training "four-headed monsters" at its MacDill Field base here.

That is its term for crewmen of the new 600-mile-an-hour B-47 jet bomber. They are the elite airmen of the present day.

A conventional B-29 bomber has a crew of 11. The big new jets are slightly larger than a B-29, have only three crew members.

Each of them is a four-way specialist, able to act as pilot, bombardier, radar operator or navigator. In the entire country there are fewer than 100 of these men. It is the job of bluff, 46-year-old Col. Mike McCoy to train more. A veteran of 16,000 hours in the air himself, he was the first officer in his 306th Bombardment Wing to be checked out in a B-47, a plane he calls "the new star of the air show."

The jet bombers—they fly at 40,000 feet cost $3.5 million each, and are designed to replace the lumbering B-29 of World War II fame—are coming slowly off the assembly lines. But it is easier to build them than to train the men to fly them.

"It takes about 24 months to turn out a combat-ready crew," said McCoy.

And the students in his pilot school here aren't exactly school-boys. Each must have at least 2,000 hours in the air to qualify as a candidate. Most are veteran combat pilots of the last war.

"Everybody in the Air Force wants to get into the program," said the colonel. "But we have to be exceptionally careful in picking them, because of the

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

The reason that I write so often about schools and teachers and pupils is that nothing that happens in the United States is quite as important as what happens to our children. Generations go and a new body of citizens takes over, and while there are some who say that times change, it is really people that change because they have been differently trained.

When I went to public school, the Bible was read every morning; we sang a hymn and we saluted the flag. No one thought that it was the wrong thing to do because parents assumed that God and patriotism were all right for children. Yet today Bible-reading is an issue on which sincere persons differ. Although the pledge of allegiance continues, there are teachers who regard it as an invasion of their rights to question their loyalty and they refuse to answer on the grounds that it would incriminate them.

It is not surprising that parents wonder what kind of a teacher guides their children when the teacher has to talk about self-incrimination in relation to loyalty. Yet, it must be said that the Fifth Amendment does protect a person against self-incrimination—as a human right.

Teaching, on the other hand, has become a very unattractive profession because as the cost of living has gone up, the salaries paid to teachers are not good enough. With the Federal Government taking so large a share of the earnings of our citizens by income taxes and withholding taxes, cities, counties and other tax-collecting agencies find it difficult to discover new means of raising revenue. There simply is not enough money to pay for everything and it is beginning to look as though we have money for everything but our children.

In addition to all the other troubles that face school authorities, it is clear that they are running short of teachers—even poor teachers. It has been estimated that in a 10-year period, if nothing is done about it, there may be a shortage of about 700,000 teachers for the children who will need schooling.

When there is a shortage of this dimension, quality of teaching must degenerate. Actually, a girl can earn more as a stenographer, with better prospects, than as a teacher. The attraction of short hours is no longer present with the 40-hour week usual in industry. The long Summer vacation is only available for the lazy and ambitious; good teachers will attend Summer Sessions at college to improve their status and their knowledge. And that costs money, as well as time.

Dr. Earl J. McGrath, United States Commissioner of Education, is quoted as saying:

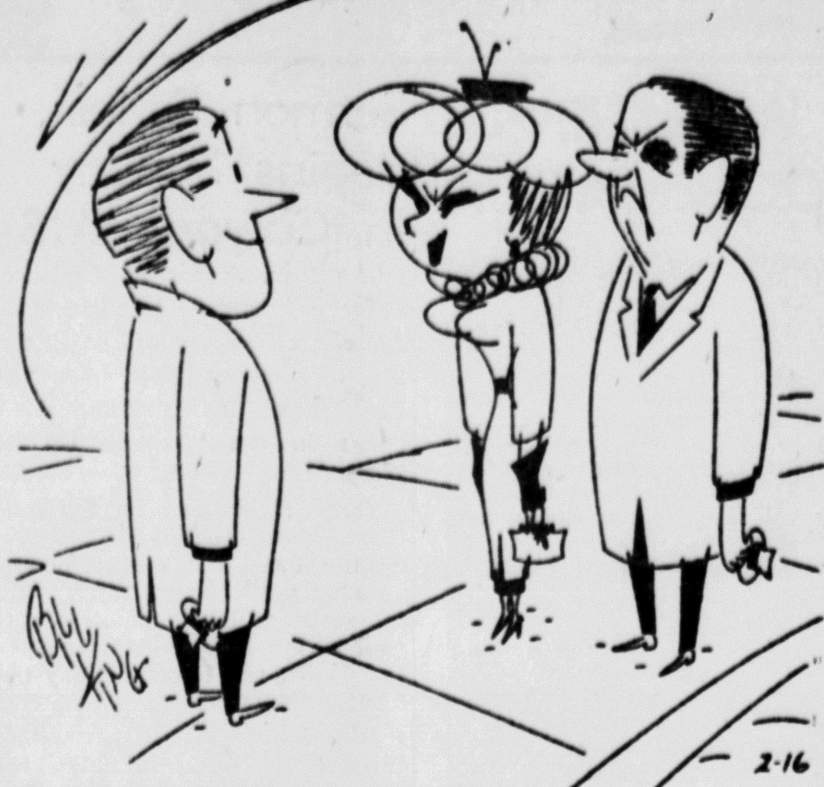

"The thinner you stretch your available teaching staff to cover the unprecedented and inexorably increasing enrollments in our public schools, the less chance there is for a teacher to do a competent job of teaching. It is the child who inevitably suffers. And when the child suffers, the nation suffers."

The problem is really serious and parents give it too little attention. They accept the conditions as they find them and they assume that because their children are at school, they are being taught. The fact is that a teacher can only do so much with a class and when it gets too large, the teacher is helpless. She grows nervous and irritable. Children are passed to higher grades who should be held back; the smart children are irked by "class average" teaching which is inadequate for them. In time, some of them become so moody in class that they seek adventure outside of it—often dangerous adventure.

On Hardening Of The Arteries

By NERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.
According to a new discovery, hardening of the arteries may have something to do with the blood clots that bring on certain heart attacks and strokes.

Hardening of the arteries, or arteriosclerosis, is one of the most prevalent diseases in certain people of advancing age. Since the total number of older people is on the increase, doctors are paying more attention to the diseases of old age. This branch of medicine is called geriatrics. With our increased interest in this subject, hardening of the arteries becomes more and more of a problem.

Exact Cause Unknown
The exact cause of this condition is yet to be discovered, though it has been sought for many years. It is believed that once the cause is discovered, a definite treatment and cure for arteriosclerosis will be found.

When an artery shows signs of hardening, its walls thicken because of a sticky chemical substance. It was recently shown that this sticky substance is closely related to another chemical with great blood clotting power, known as hyaluronate.

Thus, we suspect that when a person is suffering from hardening of the arteries, the sticky substance in the artery walls may also hasten clotting in blood vessels damaged by the disease. Arteriosclerosis may then be a major factor in causing more serious conditions.

Coronary Thrombosis

One of these is coronary thrombosis, a major cause of death from heart disease. In this condition, a blood clot is formed in one of the arteries supplying the heart. Another example, in which arteriosclerosis is probably a factor, is clotting in a blood vessel of the brain, known as cerebral thrombosis. This brings on a gradual stroke.

Hyaluronate is normally found in many parts of the body, such as the joints, the infant's navel, and the jelly-like matter in the eyeball. Further research may enable us to use this discovery to prevent dangerous blood clots in persons with arteriosclerosis. Still further research is needed to find ways of preventing arteriosclerosis, and there is already evidence that, through control of the diet, this condition may be ward off to some extent.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

M. W.: My husband has a very bad case of arthritis of the hip. The doctors say they want to do a fusion operation. What do they mean?

Answer: In this type of operation, the hip is made into a fixed joint so that no motion is possible. In this way, the pain of arthritis is eliminated.

SYNOPSIS
When Little Hong, a handsome Chinese driver leaves a small package in the care of Johnny Laddell, a New York detective, and when presently government agents find Hong murdered in a squalid flat, then Johnny knows that he has a mystery on his hands. Chinatown's elegant long chief, Jimmy Kaiming, denies having any knowledge of the crime when Laddell contacts him, but engages the detective to pursue the case.

CHAPTER EIGHT

"ANY idea of what he could have been up to?" Laddell asked Kaiming.

Kaiming straightened up, shrugged. "At best it would only be a guess. But it could be that Hong attempted to muscle into Gee Faw, a practice that could easily become fatal."

"Gee Faw? Gambling, eh?" Laddell reached over, took one of the glasses, tasted it, approved. "How would that fit in with the white angle?"

"The white racketeers have been able to move in and control much of Gee Faw in this territory," a look of irritation momentarily disturbed the Chinaman's genial expression. "It has, of course, been through the connivance of some of my compatriots. Perhaps Hong, too, tried to move in with his friends and was eliminated by business competitors." The genial mask slipped back into place. "As you know, my compatriots are great gamblers. Fan Tan, Boka Fu, Gee Faw are very important industries in our community."

"And the boys from uptown have moved in on Gee Faw? How about the others?"

Kaiming shook his head. "Only in Gee Faw. Being much like your numbers game, it is most susceptible to police interference. When my compatriots found it necessary to seek protection from the police they sought assistance from more experienced operators." He shrugged. "They have found it more difficult to get rid of the cure than it had been to get rid of the disease. The fixers have kept their foot in."

"Do I know any of these characters with the persistent feet?"

Kaiming shrugged. "You may know one such as Ben Ceria. Through the cupidry of a member of our community, a half caste named Lee Kung, Ceria has attained much stature in Chinatown. He is a partner with Lee Kung in his gaudy and disreputable Chinese Heaven." Kaiming said it as though he didn't like the taste of the words.

Laddell drained his glass, set it back on the table. "Ben Ceria, eh? I remember Ben when he was running most of the rackets around town. A nasty little man, if I remember rightly."

The cigarette holder tilted from the corner of the tong leader's mouth. "Your memory is excellent."

"He was one of Hong's associates?"

Kaiming shrugged. "I can only guess. As I told you, I know little of the man Hong and his activities." He took the cigarette holder from his mouth, rolled it between thumb and forefinger. "You are investigating the murder of Hong, Laddell?"

Laddell pinched at his nostrils. "A hundred dollars' worth. Hong came to me on a different matter. He paid me a hundred dollars as a retainer. I expect to give him his hundred dollars' worth."

Kaiming nodded. "Quite honorable. However, we are both aware that a hundred dollars is meager pay for the job that would lay ahead in solving his murder. I would like to retain you to do so."

"Why? You say you hardly know him?"

"True. Yet, he was a member of our community, and he was murdered by an outsider. That must not be permitted to happen. I would consider it a favor if you would undertake the assignment in my behalf." Kaiming got up from his chair, paced a short area near the desk. "If, in your investigation into the murder of Hong, you turn up some evidence that I make it possible for us to free our community from the clutches of racketeers, you will not find us ungrateful."

The City room of the Advance was almost deserted when Johnny Laddell walked in an hour later. He picked his way through the organized confusion of the desks, acknowledged a few greetings from the handful of shirt sleeved men who sat pecking away at typewriters of various ages and vintages.

Jim Kieley, the crime reporter-turned-city editor of the Advance, tossed a clipped up copy of the competitive morning sheet into the barrel sized waste basket at his elbow as Laddell came up.

"Hi, Johnny. His sharp eyes peered inquisitively. "What's new?"

Laddell shrugged. "Can't prove anything by me, Jim. All I've been doing lately is finding out that one half of a family doesn't know how the other half lives. Or who." He cleared a corner of the desk, perched on it. "Where's Muggsy?"

"On an assignment." Kieley pulled a charred briar from his upper drawer, started packing it with coarse cut tobacco. His eyes never left Laddell. "She'll be back at about 9:30 if something's cooking. You got something?"

Laddell shrugged. "I don't know. Get anything on that killing down in Chinatown this afternoon?"

IS KNOWLEDGE IS POWER

ATOMIC WEAPONS create in the minds of many men in the armed services a sort of dark age superstitious fear, reports Hanson Baldwin, military analyst of the New York Times, in reporting reactions of men in uniform engaged in atomic maneuvers whom he interviewed. Some think a single A-bomb exploded over a nation would render it uninhabitable for months.

Others are so completely ignorant of the potential effects of the A-bombs they think it is virtually harmless. Such fear and ignorance, which are the inevitable results of the unavoidable secrecy which surrounds the atomic program, create the danger that Americans will be inept in handling the new weapons.

An advantage of this country always has been the familiarity of its people with new methods and devices, which poses the question whether a program of military education as to the potentialities and limitations of atomic weapons is called for.

Baldwin is concerned because many American soldiers have a psychological fear of the new weapons and might be thrown into panic by their use by the enemy, whereas the Chinese and Russians know so little about the A-bomb they might not react unfavorably. Then, too, if Americans are not taught the fundamentals they might have difficulty in applying the weapons effectively.

Secrecy is never desirable if it can be avoided. The American people have been told of the terrible consequences of atomic weapons, but little else. If knowledge is power, lack of it may be weakness.

THE ONLY CURE

AT A RECENT engineers' meeting E. E. Kearns, manager of the General Electric Company's urban traffic division, stated that future automobile expressways ought to be built wide enough to accommodate a center mall for railway rapid transit. He sees rapid transit as the only permanent cure for the increasing congestion in metropolitan areas.

Congestion has already caused enormous economic loss. Mr. Kearns estimates that it is costing New York merchants $1,000,000 a day. Trucking delays represent a $40 million annual loss to Boston business. Central Detroit real estate values have dropped a billion dollars in 15 years.

Growing population is forcing workers to live farther and farther from their jobs. Congestion has slowed public transport to a crawl, so they use their cars to get to work, causing further congestion. It is a vicious circle that can be broken only by improving public transport.

Mr. Kearns points out that one lane on a city street can move a maximum of 1,500 auto passengers or 10,000 bus and trolley passengers an hour. A single track of express rapid transit can move as many as 60,000.

Public transportation facilities, if they were faster and more comfortable, would be more generally used, especially for trips in excess of four or five miles. The difficulties, physical and financial, admittedly are great, but they are not insurmountable.

No Fledglings In New Jet Bombers

TAMPA—The American Air Force is training "four-headed monsters" at its MacDill Field base here.

That is its term for crewmen of the new 600-mile-an-hour B-47 jet bomber. They are the elite airmen of the present day.

A conventional B-29 bomber has a crew of 11. The big new jets are slightly larger than a B-29, have only three crew members.

Each of them is a four-way specialist, able to act as pilot, bombardier, radar operator or navigator. In the entire country there are fewer than 100 of these men. It is the job of bluff, 46-year-old Col. Mike McCoy to train more. A veteran of 16,000 hours in the air himself, he was the first officer in his 300th Bombardment Wing to be checked out in a B-47,

These Days

George E. Sokolsky's

The reason that I write so often about schools and teachers and pupils is that nothing that happens in the United States is quite as important as what happens to our children. Generations go and a new body of citizens takes over, and while there are some who say that times change, it is really people that change because they have been differently trained.

When I went to public school, the Bible was read every morning; we sang a hymn and we saluted the flag. No one thought that it was the wrong thing to do because parents assumed that God and patriotism were all right for children. Yet today Bible-reading is an issue on which sincere persons differ. Although the pledge of allegiance continues, there are teachers who regard it as an invasion of their rights to question their loyalty and they refuse to answer on the grounds that it would incriminate them.

It is not surprising that parents wonder what kind of a teacher guides their children when the teacher has to talk about self-incrimination in relation to loyalty. Yet, it must be said that the Fifth Amendment does protect a person against self-incrimination—as a human right.

Teaching, on the other hand, has become a very unattractive profession because as the cost of living has gone up, the salaries paid to teachers are not good enough. With the Federal Government taking so large a share of the earnings of our citizens by income taxes and withholding taxes, cities, counties and other tax-collecting agencies find it difficult to discover new means of raising revenue. There simply is not enough money to pay for everything and it is beginning to look as though we have money for everything but our children.

In addition to all the other troubles that face school authorities, it is clear that they are running short of teachers—even poor teachers. It has been estimated that in a 10-year period, if nothing is done about it, there may be a shortage of about 700,000 teachers for the children who will need schooling.

When there is a shortage of this dimension, quality of teaching must degenerate. Actually, a girl can earn more as a stenographer, with better prospects, than as a teacher. The attraction of short hours is no longer present with the 40-hour week usual in industry. The long Summer vacation is only available for the lazy and ambitious; good teachers will attend Summer Sessions at college to improve their status and their knowledge. It is the child who inevitably suffers. And when the child suffers, the nation suffers."

On Hardening Of The Arteries

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

ACCORDING to a new discovery, hardening of the arteries may have something to do with the blood clots that bring on certain heart attacks and strokes.

Hardening of the arteries, or arteriosclerosis, is one of the most prevalent diseases in certain people of advancing age. Since the total number of older people is on the increase, doctors are paying more attention to the diseases of old age. This branch of medicine is called geriatrics. With our increased interest in this subject, hardening of the arteries becomes more and more of a problem.

Exact Cause Unknown

The exact cause of this condition is yet to be discovered, though it has been sought for many years. It is believed that once the cause is discovered, a definite treatment and cure for arteriosclerosis will be found.

When an artery shows signs of hardening, its walls thicken because of a sticky chemical substance. It was recently shown that this sticky substance is closely related to another chemical with great blood clotting power, known as hyaluronate.

Thus, we suspect that when a person is suffering from hardening of the arteries, the sticky substance in the artery walls may also hasten clotting in blood vessels damaged by the disease. Arteriosclerosis may then be a major factor in causing more serious conditions.

Coronary Thrombosis

One of these is coronary thrombosis, a major cause of death from heart disease. In this condition, a blood clot is formed in one of the arteries supplying the heart.

Another example, in which arteriosclerosis is probably a factor, is clotting in a blood vessel of the brain, known as cerebral thrombosis. This brings on a gradual stroke.

Hyaluronate is normally found in many parts of the body, such as the joints, the infant's navel, and the jelly-like matter in the eyeball. Further research may enable us to use this discovery to prevent dangerous blood clots in persons with arteriosclerosis.

Still further research is needed to find ways of preventing arteriosclerosis, and there is already evidence that, through control of the diet, this condition may be warded off to some extent.

The City room of the Advance was almost deserted when Johnny Liddell walked in an hour later. He picked his way through the organized confusion of the desks, acknowledged a few greetings from the handful of shirt-sleeved men who sat pecking away at typewriters of various ages and vintages.

Jim Kiely, the crime reporter-turned-city editor of the Advance, tossed a clipped up copy of the competitive morning sheet into the barrel sized waste basket at his elbow as Liddell came up.

"Hi, Johnny. His sharp eyes peered inquisitively. "What's new?"

Liddell shrugged. "Can't prove anything by me, Jim. All I've been doing lately is finding out that one half of a family doesn't know how the other half loves. Or who." He cleared a corner of the desk, perched on it. "Where's Mugsy?"

"On an assignment." Kiely pulled a charred briar from his upper drawer, started packing it with coarse cut tobacco. His eyes never left Liddell. "She'll be back at about 9:30 if something's cooking. You got something?"

Liddell shrugged. "I don't know. Get anything on that killing down the corner of the tong leader's Little Chink named Hong."

"A killing?" Kiely screwed his brow in concentration. "Don't remember anything offhand. Wait, I'll check rewrite." He spun in his swivel chair, yelled to one of the shirt-sleeved men pounding away at a typewriter. "Hey, Roddy! Anything in the stuff from Mac down at the Elizabeth street station house?"

The rewrite man looked up, peered nearsightedly at a pile of copy paper in his basket. "Nothing much. Couple of gambling raids, a Chink found dead in a tenement."

"That's the one," Liddell told Kiely.

"What've you got on the dead Chink?"

The rewrite man picked up the copy paper, glanced through it, shrugged. "The usual. Sounds like he wrenched on a bet or something, so they cut him up as a lesson to other welders." He frowned at a penciled notation in the corner of the sheet. "News desk wants me to hold it to a stick."

Kiely nodded, swung back to Liddell. "That the one?" He looked disappointed. "For a minute I thought you had something we could blow up into a story." The sharp eyes studied Liddell's face. "How come you're interested in it?"

"The dead guy was a client of mine."

The city editor scratched a wooden match on the underside of the desk, held it to the pipe. He sucked noisily for a moment, finally got it going. "What would a guy like that want a private eye for?"

Liddell shrugged. "Something big enough to make a couple of guys make like T-men, forge a writ, and snatch it right from under my nose."

"Snatch what?"

"Who knows? It was sealed in a package that Hong left with me."

Kiely sucked thoughtfully on his pipe. "Make like T-men, eh? That means white men."

"Yeah. Matter of fact, it's beginning to look like Mr. Hong was playing footsy with an old buddy of yours, Ben Ceria."

Kiely grunted. "That's cozy. That means Hong could have been mixed up in anything. Ceria never did care how low he'd have to stoop to pick up a dollar." He leaned back, hooked his heel on the corner of his desk. "If Ceria shows in this job, Johnny, you're a sucker to stick your neck out unless there's plenty in it."

"It's no charity pitch, Jim," Liddell assured him. "I've got me a client. Jimmy Kaiming of the tong."

Factual Reading, Study On The Increase, Revealed In Annual Library Report

Favorite Books Are Listed

Circulation of non-fiction books from the main library of the Pickaway County District Public Library reached an all-time high in 1951, it was disclosed Saturday in the annual report made by Mrs. Enid Denham, librarian.

A total of 9,977 volumes of non-fiction were taken from the library for home use as compared with the total figure of 9,202 volumes withdrawn in 1950, an increase of almost 8.5 percent, she said.

This figure does not take into account the many non-fiction books consulted in reference work or used to answer a specific question at the library.

Mrs. Denham revealed that: "Periodicals borrowed for home reading and study showed an increase of almost 20 percent, proving that although television is undoubtedly using many of the leisure hours of our former fiction and rental readers, factual reading and study are actually on the increase."

"Although the rental circulation was only 2,523 in 1951, a loss of 250 circulations, the collection itself is still self supporting, maintaining a small balance of income over cost and permitting the book funds to be spent for other forms of literature, non-fiction, books of science, travel, magazines, westerns, as well as providing for the best and newest in the fiction field."

Most popular books on the rental list in 1951, according to library records were: Bromfield's "Mr. Smith"; "Woman Called Fancy", by Verby; "Iron Mistress", by Wellman; "Foxfire", by Seton; "Morning Journey", by Hilton; MacInnes' "Neither Five nor Three"; "Nightrunners of Bengal", by Masters; "Candelmas Bay", by Moore, and Faith Baldwin's "Whole Armour".

In the non-fiction class, Mrs. Denham said, "Of the total 13,132 books of non-fiction circulated from the main library, children read 3,155; adults 9,977, a proportion of about 3 to 10. Most popular class for adult reading were the periodicals, with 2,019 circulations for home use; literature, 1473; fine arts, 1145; useful arts, 1076; biography, 812.

"Children preferred social science books—a class including folklore and fairy tales, then biography, then science, for their non-fiction reading. They also read almost as many 14-day fiction as the adults—15,617 volumes."

"Circulation from the county bookmobile showed an increase of about 400 volumes. The first four months of 1951 had almost 5,000 more books in circulation than the similar period of 1950. Grade school teachers took 2782 books for class use in 1950; 3054 in 1951. High school teachers took 37 books for their pupils in 1950; 537 in 1951.

"Our circulations to teachers does not take into consideration the fact that one book issued to a teacher may be read aloud and enjoyed by the entire class of 30 to 45 pupils; nor do the circulation figures tally the folks at home who may read the books brought in by other members of the family.

"Reference work and answering questions is a large part of the library's daily routine; 614 questions were counted at the main desk with 90 books consulted in answering these questions, an increase of 25 percent over reference use of 1950.

"This does not include the many times a patron is given a complete book on the subject in question such as a book on "jets", information on pet care; wedding etiquette—material that could be found through use of the library card catalog.

"A few of the questions asked were on, altitude of Columbus, pictures of trivets, buttons, marriage laws of different states; dimensions of a basket and board for the newly acquired basketball, information on the religious groups in Ohio; quotations to head the fortnightly program; dress in Shakespeare's day, and so on. Factual Reading, Study On The Increase, Revealed In Annual Library Report

Circulation of non-fiction books from the main library of the Pickaway County District Public Library reached an all-time high in 1951, it was disclosed Saturday in the annual report made by Mrs. Enid Denham, librarian.

A total of 9,977 volumes of non-fiction were taken from the library for home use as compared with the total figure of 9202 volumes withdrawn in 1950, an increase of almost 8.5 percent, she said.

This figure does not take into account the many non-fiction books consulted in reference work or used to answer a specific question at the library.

Mrs. Denham revealed that: "Periodicals borrowed for home reading and study showed an increase of almost 20 percent, proving that although television is undoubtedly using many of the leisure hours of our former fiction and rental readers, factual reading and study are actually on the increase.

Even the reindeer of the General Electric Corp. Christmas display originated in the picture files of the library.

"A large part of the reference work done in the library is in co-operation with individuals or club members in search of material for papers, club procedure, program ideas, readings and recitations and parties or games for the social sessions.

"The large number of periodicals read gives some idea of how many club papers are based on their use, though, since many are read in the library, total count of their usage cannot be given.

The librarian declared, "Book stock at the library now numbers 46,598. Of the 2,665 books added during 1951, 1868 were for the main library, 984 for the County Juvenile books at the main numbered 717; county bookmobile, 656; 6645 catalog cards were made for these books; 206 books were rebound at the bindery; 941 main library books were mended at the library, as well as 974 county books. The library has a magazine subscription list of 70 titles and acquires many more through gifts.

"Displays of books on special subjects have included books on personal attractiveness; cook books; Christmas books; books on psychoanalysis; child study; circus books; and sports of all kinds. A special display was made of odd articles left in returned library books.

"Many special collections were prepared and sent to classrooms and schools for study; many of these to provide extra reading materials for school subjects. Books on pioneers; collections of poetry; American novels; books on Shakespeare and by Shakespeare and a few books on Eskimos are a few of these topics served.

"The county Bookmobile was on exhibit at the Pickaway County Fair, and Miss Irwin had a Bookmobile and pumpkin window display during Pumpkin Show.

"The library also establishes contact with newcomers to Circleville through the distribution of the application cards and basic rules through the Welcome Wagon.

"A total of 836 members were registered and re-registered at main library; 717 in the county. Total registrations for the three years period in the main library are 2552; county 4726, making a sum of 7278 borrowers.

"The library gratefully acknowledges the many gifts of books, pamphlets and magazines that have been received at the library," Mrs. Denham concluded.

Members of the library board of trustees are: Mrs. Clark Will, president; Miss Nelle Osterle, vice-president; Mrs. John Dunlap, Jr., Mrs. K. E. Dountz, Richard Penn, Phil Smith, who was appointed at the expiration of the term of Mr. Clark Hunsicker, and Mr. A. W. Bosworth.

Members of the staff are: Mrs. Enid Denham, librarian; Miss Wilmina Pehbus, and Miss Jessie Cummings, assistants; Miss Charlotte Irwin, Bookmobile librarian; Mrs. Ruth McDonald, assistant on Bookmobile, and Weldon Owens, Bookmobile driver. Miss Phyllis Clifton is the page.

Mrs. Barton Deming and Miss Katherine McKinnon served on the county staff until July 1, last year. Mrs. Mary Birkhead serves as custodian of the building.

Candidates Are Presented At GOP Dinner

A Lincoln Day dinner was celebrated in St. Philip's Episcopal parish house Monday evening by Pickaway County Republican Club.

Mrs. H. O. Caldwell, program chairman, gave a few remarks concerning Lincoln and Miss Miriam Ward played, "Polonaise" by Chopin. Mrs. Arthur Swingle read, "Some Lincoln Day Thoughts."

Miss Lucille Ball played two violin solos, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Voss Blake. A paper on Lincoln was read by Mrs. Paul Peters.

Mrs. Ralph Dunkel sang three numbers, accompanied by Miss Schiear.

Mrs. Caldwell then introduced the following local candidates: Carl Bennett, representative to general assembly; William Ammer, prosecuting attorney; John Kerns and Willson Leist, candidates for sheriff and Lawrence Cupp, clerk of courts.

Miss Joyce Howell, secretary to Senator Roscoe Walcott addressed the group. Senator Leo Blackburn of Scioto County, candidate for Congress, spoke on, "Who So Would Kindle Others, Must Himself Glow."

Principal speaker of the evening was D. H. Barnes of industrial department of Swift and Co. His subject was, "This Is Our Problem." In closing, he said, "Buy the American way of life, and you buy the best."

Jackie Dilley Given Party On Birthday

Mrs. Carl Dilley honored her daughter Jacqueline on her eighth birthday Thursday afternoon.

Other guests were Helen Brown, Norma Esterday, Brenda Iles, Sharma Callihan, Elizabeth Stonerock, and Walter and Eugene Dilley.

Chillicothe Art League, Local Artists To Display Paintings In Courthouse

Members of Chillicothe Art League will present a public exhibition of paintings by their members and also those of local artists in Pickaway County Courthouse lobby, beginning at 7 p. m. Feb. 22.

Because of the interest shown in the exhibition during the Pumpkin Show, the League will present between 40 and 60 pictures, both in oil medium and water color.

Mrs. Edwin Bach Jr., of East Franklin street, a local member of the League is inviting any Circleville and Pickaway County resident who is interested in showing an original work in conjunction with the Chillicothe League, to bring their pictures to the show. There are no fees either for entering a painting or visiting the exhibit. Framed picture should be taken to Mrs. Bach, 369 East Franklin street, before Feb. 22.

According to Mrs. Bach, members of the League are all amateur painters, many of whom are without formal training. Mrs. Bach also expressed the hope that a similar Art League could be formed in Circleville since there seems to be so much interest as evidenced by the many persons attending the last exhibit.

Mrs. Gene Kuhns and Oren Webb of Chillicothe and Mrs. Bach will be present at the exhibition to answer questions and greet visitors.

Marsha Wharton Is Honored On Anniversary

Snappers, jonquils and glad-oli were used as a centerpiece on the table when Mrs. Stanley Peters of South Court street entertained Thursday afternoon with a birthday party for her granddaughter, Marsha Sue Wharton.

The time was spent in playing games and opening gifts followed with birthday refreshments which were served to:

Paul Hang, Bobby Shadley, Johnny Truffman, Donald Rolland, David Huffner, Rita Thomas, Pamela Teal, Linda Emerine, Suelien Hang, Nancy Meyers, Phyllis Peters, Ruth Sines, David Dancy, Judy Ann Wharton and the guest of honor who was celebrating her 11th anniversary.

Mrs. Peters was assisted by Mrs. Jennie Boden, Mrs. Walter Givens and Marsha's mother, Mrs. George Wharton.

Leap-Year Party Entertains Nazarene Youth

A leap-year party was held by young people of the Nazarene church in the parsonage on South Pickaway street Thursday evening.

Boys were guests of their girl friends and wives brought their husbands, making a total of 70 persons present for the affair.

The Rev. and Mrs. D. E. Clay conducted games which were played.

William Babbert was awarded a prize for the best Valentine jingle and Milton Burford, president of Columbus Nazarene Young People's Society, won a prize in a Bible quiz.

Refreshments were served by teenage girls and women of the church at the close of the evening.

Valentine Party Held In High Street School

High Street School held its annual Valentine party Thursday afternoon. Room decorations consisted of hand-made lacy hearts and other friendship tokens.

Games, contests, Valentine songs and dances were forms of amusements.

Sixth grade pupils had as their guests, Mrs. Jeanne Moorehead, speech therapist and Richard Neikirk, music supervisor. They were entertained with a series of folk dances: Dutch Couple Dance; Danish Folk Dance and the Virginia Reel.

Refreshments were served from decorated tables centered with well filled Valentine boxes.

All mothers helped to make the party a success.

Connell Named To State Board

Erice Connell of Derby, superintendent of Darby Township school, has been appointed as a member of the state board of control in the Ohio High School Athletic Association.

Connell for several years has held a post with the OHSAA as a member of the central district committee. Pickaway County is a member of the central district.

The Darby Township administrator is expected to continue to be active in promoting and assisting in the regulation of the central district Class "A" tournaments in Columbus.

'Mr. Shortstop' Hangs Up Glove

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 16 — (AP)—Honus Wagner, baseball's Mr. Shortstop, retired Saturday as coach of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Wagner, one of the first players to be voted to baseball's Hall of Fame, spent 37 of his 40 years on the diamond with the Bucs, 18 of them as a player. The barrel-chested, bandy-legged Wagner, now 78, led the National League in batting eight of his 21 years in the major leagues.

Lad Scores 58 Points In Game

CLEVELAND, Feb. 16 — (AP)—Dave Demko, Cleveland St. Ignace high school forward, scored 58 points Friday night as his team walloped Glenville 111 to 33.

His performance missed by one point the city record established in 1945. With a little more accuracy from the free throw line, Dave could have shattered that mark easily. He made only four out of 10 charity tosses.

THREE TEAMS ARE ELIMINATED

Trojans Hand Broncos 55-47 Defeat, Go Into Semifinals

Darby Trojan basketballers moved up into challenging position in the 1952 Pickaway County basketball tournament Friday night with a comfortable 55-47 win over Ashville Broncos.

At the same time, hopes for three other teams for a trip to the district tournament were dashed when they fell before their opponents.

Darby moved into the semifinal round of the winner's bracket with its victory over the Broncos, slated to meet New Holland Monday night for a crack at the county title.

2 Teams To Win District Berths In Monday Tests

Monday night's actions in the 1952 Pickaway County basketball tournament will mean a trip to the district Class "B" tournament in Westerville for two of the eight teams remaining in the annual test.

Fans are expected to jam into the Fairgrounds Coliseum for the feature game program, in which the four top teams in the county will perform.

Pickaway Pirates and Monroe Indians will tangle in one of the feature attractions, while Darby Trojans and New Holland Bulldogs will scrap in the other one.

Winners of those two games will be guaranteed a trip to the district contest, while one of them will become Pickaway County's 1952 champion.

only four teams after Monday night.

Attendance for Monday's program, with its semifinal round in both winner's and loser's bracket, is expected to far exceed the 1,732 on hand Friday night.

Tournament Manager Robert Seward said Friday's crowd consisted of 1,383 paid admissions, 150 season tickets and 199 passes.

A 14-year-old county youngster gave fans attending the Friday contest a "bang" during the evening.

The youngster lighted a giant firecracker in the stands. Deputy James Diltz said the lad is expected to be reprimanded by Probation officer Karl Herrmann.

And another incident involving the law happened while the tournament was going on.

Jim McConnell of Circleville had stayed for the final game of the evening, then left the Coliseum to ride his bicycle home. He walked, instead. His bike had been stolen.

Middletown '5' Falls To Hamilton

CINCINNATI, Feb. 16.—Middletown's high-flying basketball team got its lumps Friday night from arch-rival Hamilton to plummet from the ranks of the unbeaten, 57-48.

It was the first loss for the Middies, the top-rated team in the Associated Press state high school poll, in 17 games. The victory for Hamilton, No. 2 team in the state, was particularly sweet. It avenged the 66-49 whipping Middletown administered to it a month ago. The crowd of 11,762 in Cincinnati Garden was the largest ever to attend a regularly scheduled high school cage contest in Ohio.

Arnold (Jigger) Stutz and Jake Fournier, former Brooklyn Dodgers, now scout baseball talent for the Chicago Cubs.

Graham Seeking New Gavilan Test

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—(P)—Welterweight Contender Billy Graham of New York and International Boxing Club officials meet Saturday to discuss an important bout for the clever New Yorker.

Graham hopes Matchmaker Al Weill intends to talk turkey about another title crack at Welterweight Champion Kid Gavilan. The 29-year-old veteran of 109 pro fights punched out an unanimous decision over 50-year-old Jimmy Herring of New York in Madison Square Garden Friday night.

J. Edgar Hoover and the FBI constantly call attention to the increase of juvenile crime, which parents ignore until it hits their own homes and then they wonder how it could happen to them. Someone once said: "There are no bad children; there are only bad parents." It is something to think about these days when citizens do not guard their schools and wonder at the improprieties of their children.

The schools should come first in our interest. They are more important than many functions that the Federal Government has piled up in the enthusiasm of political empire-building.

Yogi Berra of the Yankees and Jim Hegan of the Indians were the only American League catchers who played in 100 or more games during the 1951 season.

More than 3,500,000 games have been rolled in 48 American Bowling Congress Tournaments but only 11 perfect games have been recorded at these meetings.

2 Teams To Win District Berths In Monday Tests

Monday night's actions in the 1952 Pickaway County basketball tournament will mean a trip to the district Class "B" tournament in Westerville for two of the eight teams remaining in the annual test.

Fans are expected to jam into the Fairgrounds Coliseum for the feature game program, in which the four top teams in the county will perform.

Pickaway Pirates and Monroe Indians will tangle in one of the feature attractions, while Darby Trojans and New Holland Bulldogs will scrap in the other one.

Winners of those two games will be guaranteed a trip to the district contest, while one of them will become Pickaway County's 1952 champion.

THE LOSERS in the matches will have hope for a district trip, although the odds will be 3-1 against them.

Three of Pickaway County's 11 teams are to go to the tourney—the championship team and the second and third place teams. Third place team is winner of the loser's bracket, which will contain only four teams after Monday night.

Attendance for Monday's program, with its semifinals round in both winner's and loser's bracket, is expected to far exceed the 1,732 on hand Friday night.

Tournament Manager Robert Seward said Friday's crowd consisted of 1,383 paid admissions, 150 season tickets and 199 passes.

A 14-year-old county youngster gave fans attending the Friday contest a "bang" during the evening.

The youngster lighted a giant firecracker in the stands. Deputy James Diltz said the lad is expected to be reprimanded by Probation officer Karl Herrmann.

And another incident involving the law happened while the tourney was going on.

Jim McConnell of Circleville had stayed for the final game of the evening, then left the Coliseum to ride his bicycle home. He walked, instead. His bike had been stolen.

Middletown '5' Falls To Hamilton

CINCINNATI, Feb. 16.—(AP)—Middletown's high-flying basketball team got its lumps Friday night from arch-rival Hamilton to plummet from the ranks of the unbeaten, 57-48.

It was the first loss for the Middies, the top-rated team in the Associated Press state high school poll, in 17 games. The victory for Hamilton, No. 2 team in the state, was particularly sweet. It avenged the 66-49 whipping Middletown administered to it a month ago. The crowd of 11,762 in Cincinnati Garden was the largest ever to attend a regularly scheduled high school game contest in Ohio.

Arnold (Jigger) Stutz and Jake Fournier, former Brooklyn Dodgers, now scout baseball talent for the Chicago Cubs.

Taxes Take 60 Cents Of Each Dollar

Business Studies Vexing Problem As Uncle Sam Grabs

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—(P)—Taxes are the fastest growing item on many a corporation's books this year. Taxes are taking about 60 cents of each dollar the average business earns—a higher percentage even than at the peak of the last war.

Some companies give them even more than that to the income tax collector. Their tax checks are more than twice as big as a year ago. And that opens up some vexing questions for management and stockholders and, in the long run, for employees, too:

- 1. Can present dividend rates be maintained?
- 2. Must business borrow more money for day by day cash operations?
- 3. Must it borrow more to build and expand?
- 4. Can business induce the public to invest more money?
- 5. Will this need for cash make the money supply painfully tight by March 15?

Most shareholders note in the annual reports now being issued that Uncle Sam is getting a far higher share of the profits than they are. He gets 52 cents of each dollar of "ordinary profit" of the majority of corporations.

WHEN GROSS earnings top the average for the years 1946-49, the amount above that average is called excess, and the tax collector takes 30 cents more of that "excess profit" dollar.

As a result, the net profit of the majority of manufacturing companies is lower for 1951 than it was for 1950. But not all of them. Every oil company reporting so far has larger net profits than it showed a year earlier. Business was very good for the oil companies, and also they, like the mining companies, get a special tax allowance because of the depletion of their assets due to the nature of their operations.

Other companies doing better in 1951 than in 1950 can be found in these industries: machine tools, coal, utilities and airlines.

While profits went up for mines, they went down for steel mills and metal fabricators. They went up for the airlines and down for the railroads. Sales of chemical companies soared, but profit after taxes is down. Taxes and material controls cut earnings of the auto and appliance makers. Taxes and higher operating costs clipped the profits of stores.

Because of the high tax rates, Uncle Sam has a real stake in trying to keep business profits high, corporate management argues.

THE TREASURY expects to take in nearly $23 billion in taxes from business this fiscal year. In the fiscal year starting July 1, the take is expected to be nearer $28 billion because the new higher rates were effective nine months of the 1950 year on which they were paid, but will be effective all 12 months this year. This huge total in the year ahead will be almost twice the peak amount collected from business in any one year of World War II—$16.5 billion.

And after Uncle Sam takes the income of the corporation, he then taxes the income the individual gets from dividends the corporation pays.

Vets Discharged For Disability To Get Aid

In a law passed recently, all veterans who were discharged from the service with a disability discharge or with a medical discharge are entitled to receive out-patient treatment and hospitalization in a VA hospital for that condition, even though it is not service connected.

James P. Shea, Pickaway County Veteran's service officer, said: "This law permits those veterans who do not have a service-connected disability, but who were discharged for medical reasons, to get out-patient treatment and VA hospitalization for the disability for which they were discharged."

"All veterans who did not receive a medical discharge must have a service connected disability in order to receive VA hospitalization and out-patient treatment, unless they need treatment at the VA hospital for emergency reasons."

Further information may be obtained from Shea in his office in Pickaway Courthouse.

Physician Dies

DAYTON, Feb. 16.—(P)—Dr. Gustave A. Hochwalt, 79, a physician here for more than 50 years, died Friday night.

In 175 years of wars, one million Americans were killed. Last year three quarters of this number died of heart and circulation diseases. Gifts to the Heart Fund will help find the causes, new methods of care, treatment and prevention.

90 Percent Of Traffic Accidents Said Caused By Rule Violations

Operation Safety — the national traffic education project — is authority for the statement that 90 percent of our highway accidents would disappear if every driver obeyed traffic rules.

Pickaway County Sheriff's office doubts whether the percentage is that high for rural areas but agrees that, in most accidents, at least one person—driver or pedestrian—has violated the law or has been guilty of bad driving.

Failure to keep a car under control is the most common fault on the open road. Ohio law requires that a vehicle be operated at a speed that will permit it to be stopped in the assured clear distance ahead.

That distance is the space between your car and the nearest condition that might require you to stop. The minimum allowance is one car length for each 10 miles of speed; three car lengths at 30 mph; five lengths at 50.

Wet pavements double the space required, but it is common to see cars practically bumper to bumper operating at speeds equal to or greater than posted limits in rural sections.

Improper passing is another large contributor to traffic casualties. Most of Ohio's highways are yellow-lined in zones where passing is prohibited. Probably no highway marking is disregarded more than the yellow "no passing" line.

The highway department puts these lines in places where sight distances are too short for safe passing. Curves and hills are the spots most frequently marked. And these places are where passing accidents are most frequent.

Failure to yield right of way may not be so frequent in the country, but accidents from this cause are much more severe than in the city. Practically everyone knows that vehicles seeking to enter main highways should wait until through traffic clears.

But you can't go fifty miles without seeing several instances where cars or trucks pull onto the road ahead of approaching traffic—which must stop or slow way down to avoid collision.

So many intersections are equipped with "STOP" signs today that many drivers seem to forget that the right hand rule still applies at many crossroads. When neither road is designated as the primary road, all vehicles must yield to traffic from the right.

Highway signs warn of conditions that require cautious operation or reduced speed. All too few of these are heeded as the motorist breezes along the open road.

For example, an advance warning sign is placed 300 to 500 feet from all railroad crossings on state highways. This is ample distance to stop a car—at legal speeds—before it reaches the nearest track.

But there have been about 200 smashups between motor vehicles and trains, outside of cities. In many of these, the vehicle has struck the train. Even those where the vehicle was hit could have been avoided if the driver had reduced speed when he saw the round yellow sign at the edge of the highway.

Armco Offers Big Annexation

MIDDLETOWN, Feb. 16.—(P)—The Armco Steel Corp. has placed the most important annexation in the history of Butler County—from a money standpoint—before the county commissioners.

The steel company asked that its new $50 million plant be annexed to the city of Middletown. Art Reiff, president of the board of commissioners, said a public hearing on the proposal would be held here May 9.

OPS Meeting In Chillicothe On Tuesday

A special informational conference will be held at 2 p. m. Tuesday, Feb. 19 at the Chamber of Commerce in Chillicothe, to explain to interested wholesalers and retailers the OPS regulations affecting the distribution of white potatoes, it was announced Friday by Clyde C. McBee, director of the Columbus district Office of Price Stabilization.

George Gorsuch, business analyst in the Columbus district OPS will explain the applicable regulations.

The regulations involved are known technically as CPR 113, Rev. 1 and Amendment 10 to CPR 15 and 16. McBee said that although there has been a general compliance with the controls it has been learned that many wholesalers and retailers do not have complete information as to their respective markups.

He said also that because of short supply and heavy demand for Idaho potatoes shipments have been passing through more than the usual number of handlers. Some confusion has arisen as to the share of the total markup which each handler may assume.

Taxes Take 60 Cents Of Each Dollar

Business Studies Vexing Problem As Uncle Sam Grabs

NEW YORK, Feb. 16—(P)—Taxes are the fastest growing item on many a corporation's books this year. Taxes are taking about 60 cents of each dollar the average business earns—a higher percentage even than at the peak of the last war.

Some companies give them even more than that to the income tax collector. Their tax checks are more than twice as big as a year ago. And that opens up some vexing questions for management and stockholders and, in the long run, for employees, too:

1. Can present dividend rates be maintained?
2. Must business borrow more money for day by day cash operations?
3. Must it borrow more to build and expand?
4. Can business induce the public to invest more money?
5. Will this need for cash make the money supply painfully tight by March 15?

Most shareholders note in the annual reports now being issued that Uncle Sam is getting a far higher share of the profits than they are. He gets 60 cents of each dollar of "ordinary profit" of the majority of corporations.

WHEN GROSS earnings top the average for the years 1946-49, the amount above that average is called excess, and the tax collector takes 30 cents more of that "excess profit" dollar.

As a result, the net profit of the majority of manufacturing companies is lower for 1951 than it was for 1950. But not all of them. Every oil company reporting so far has larger net profits than it showed a year earlier. Business was very good for the oil companies, and also they, like the mining companies, get a special tax allowance because of the depletion of their assets due to the nature of their operations.

Other companies doing better in 1951 than in 1950 can be found in these industries: machine tools, coal, utilities and airlines.

While profits went up for mines, they went down for steel mills and metal fabricators. They went up for the airlines and down for the railroads. Sales of chemical companies soared, but profit after taxes is down. Taxes and material controls cut earnings of the auto and appliance makers. Taxes and higher operating costs clipped the profits of stores.

Because of the high tax rates, Uncle Sam has a real stake in trying to keep business profits high, corporate management argues.

THE TREASURY expects to take in nearly $23 billion in taxes from business this fiscal year. In the fiscal year starting July 1, the take is expected to be nearer $28 billion because the new higher rates were effective nine months of the 1950 year on which they were paid, but will be effective all 12 months this year. This huge total in the year ahead will be almost twice the peak amount collected from business in any one year of World War II—$16.5 billion.

And after Uncle Sam taxes the income of the corporation, he then taxes the income the individual gets from dividends the corporation pays.

Vets Discharged For Disability To Get Aid

In a law passed recently, all veterans who were discharged from the service with a disability discharge or with a medical discharge are entitled to receive out-patient treatment and hospitalization in a VA hospital for that condition, even though it is not service connected.

James P. Shea, Pickaway County Veteran's service officer, said: "This law permits those veterans who do not have a service-connected disability, but who were discharged for medical reasons, to get out-patient treatment and VA hospitalization for the disability for which they were discharged."

"All veterans who did not receive a medical discharge must have a service connected disability in order to receive VA hospitalization and out-patient treatment, unless they need treatment at the VA hospital for emergency reasons."

OPS Meeting In Chillicothe On Tuesday

A special informational conference will be held at 2 p. m. Tuesday, Feb. 19 at the Chamber of Commerce in Chillicothe, to explain to interested wholesalers and retailers the OPS regulations affecting the distribution of white potatoes, it was announced Friday by Clyde C. McBee, director of the Columbus district Office of Price Stabilization.

George Gorsuch, business analyst in the Columbus district OPS will explain the applicable regulations.

The regulations involved are known technically as CPR 113, Rev. 1 and Amendment 10 to CPR 15 and 16. McBee said that although there has been a general compliance with the controls it has been learned that many wholesalers and retailers do not have complete information as to their respective markups. He said also that because of short supply and heavy demand for Idaho potatoes shipments have been passing through more than the usual number of handlers. Some confusion has arisen as to the share of the total markup which each handler may assume.
